Over the past few years, I have worked with a wide variety of brands, creating visual content for digital platforms and print. More recently, I have specialised in UX/UI design within the iGaming industry, designing user interfaces, wireframes, and prototypes for web and mobile products.

Alongside product design, I create and define brand identities and maintain design systems, style guides, and UI component libraries to ensure consistency and scalability across platforms. I contribute to the end-to-end design process, including usability testing and user feedback analysis, to improve product experiences.
